WWW.CHRIS CRAFT STINGERS.COM Newsletter, October 2011

Welcome to the October, 2011 newsletter!

Welcome back for another issue of the chriscraftstingers.com newsletter. It's getting cold up here in the Chicago area, and boats are being winterized. However, work continues on the website.

This past month, I've updated the history page to include more information regarding George Dale Murray – one of the people, who, with Dick Genth, purchased Chris-Craft in 1981. Murray's story is an interesting one – having saved Chris-Craft in the early 1980's, he also oversaw its downfall by the end of that decade.

I've made configuration changes to the forums section of the website to cut down on the amount of spammers. Spammers are relentless – the software in place has blocked over 10,000 spammers from registering to the forums since it was installed. The changes put in place should reduce the number of spam postings in the forums.

The number of Stingers documented on the website continues to grow. There are now close to 410 Stingers documented from around the world.

I'm excited to announce that I've been able to double the number of 334s documented on the website! The 334s are the rarest of the Stinger models – these were built in 1989 when Chris-Craft was owned by Outboard Marine Corporation. Up until this month, I only knew of one 334 in existence. The owner of this 334 knew of only his as well. But searching a website in Finland I ran across a second 334 for sale. Make sure to check it out on the galleries page of the website.

New items have been put up for sale on the website – there are now two owner's manuals that came with a 1988 Stinger 375. These owner's manuals are hard to find, and have cutaway diagrams and electrical diagrams of the boats – check them out on the parts page.

As always, if you have any information on a Stinger, or are looking to buy a boat or parts, please feel free to contact me at cstinger@gmail.com. Han.

Grew Manufacturing Out of Business

Grew Manufacturing (grew.ca), has gone out of business. Grew Manufacturing was a Canadian boat builder. In business since the late 1920's, Grew Manufacturing holds a special place in the history of Chris-Craft Stingers. In 1986, Chris-Craft licensed Grew Manufacturing to build Stingers. As of this newsletter, there are 3 1986 Grew produced Stinger 260s in the registry.

Mr David Cameron, president of Grew Manufacturing passed away on February 21, 2011.

Grew Manufacturing went into receivership on May 10, 2011. At the time, Grew Manufacturing had more than CAD $2 million in liabilities. A tender for bids was closed on August 31, 2011. No further information is available at this time.

Total Number of Stingers Built by Model

Running the website, I often get questions from visitors about how many Stingers were built, by model. In a previous edition of the newsletter, I talked about the most popular Stingers by model, and noted the number of Stingers in the registry. And while the number of Stingers in the registry gives us percentages of which models were built, it doesn't tell us how many Stingers Chris-Craft built by model.

To try and answer the question of how many Stingers were built by model, I started analyzing hull numbers. As discussed in a previous newsletter, the hull number codes a lot of information in it, and one of the pieces of information is a number which represents the number of the hull built for a particular model. So, for example, say we have a Stinger 312 whose number is 255 – this number would indicate that this Stinger was the 255th 312 built.

Easy enough, right? But not so quick. There are at least two twists to using this number. The first is that the format of hull numbers changed in 1984. The second is trying to determine what the first hull number is for a given model.

In 1984, the format of the hull numbers changed industry-wide. In addition to the format change, it looks like Chris-Craft took the opportunity to change the numbering as well. Pre-1985 boat hull numbers increment sequentially up until 1985. From 1985 onward, hull numbers were reset on a yearly basis. As an example, the first 1986 Stinger 312 would have the number 1. However, the first 1983 Stinger 312 would not have the number 1, but it might have a number 245 indicating it was the 245th Stinger 312 built since production began.

The second twist in using these hull numbers is determining exactly which number was given to the first hull built for a particular model. So, using the example above, what would be the number of the 1st 312 built for 1987? Logically, we would think it would be 1. But in researching the hull numbers, I found that this was not the case for post 1984 boats. I could find no examples (except for one) where a post 1984 boat had a hull number less than 100. Because of this, I assume that Chris-Craft reset hull numbers to 100 annually for post-1984 boats.

Initially, it seemed that pre-1985 boats would also follow the same initial numbering pattern as above – that is, the first hull would not be numbered 1. But, in my research, I found something interesting. In 1979 and 1980, Chris-Craft built an Excalibur model. The hull code of the Excalibur model was the same hull code used by the Stinger 312s! And, one of the Excalibur boats was numbered 8, indicating it was the 8th one built. From this, I conclude that hull numbers identified hulls instead of the boat model (although in some cases these could be the same), and that the initial number for pre-1985 boats was 1.

I mentioned above an exception on hull numbering for post-1984 boats. It looks like Chris-Craft reset hull numbers to 100 for these boats. However, the 1989 334 does not follow this hull number convention. The 334 is the rarest of the Stingers built – only two are known to exist. I have the hull number for one of the 334s and it is 1! So, it seems that the 334s did not have their hull numbers reset to 100.

Now, on to determining just how many Stingers by model Chris-Craft built. In determining these numbers, I've made the following assumptions:

- Pre-1985 hull numbers start at 1. These hull numbers may be shared across other Chris-Craft models.
- Post-1984 hull numbers were reset annually to 100, except for the 334 Stingers.

Given these assumptions, I believe Chris-Craft made at least the following number of Stingers by model:

- 202: 189 built
- 222: 228 built
- 230: 208 built
- 260: 837 built
- 311: 46 built
- 312: 505 built
- 313: 26 built
- 314: 9 built
- 334: 2 built
- 375: 21 built
- 385: 3 built
- 390: 196 built
- 415: 26 built

Two models stand out in this analysis – the 230 and the 385. The 230 Stinger was only built in 1984, so I find it hard to believe that 208 of them were built. I believe this is a case of hull code sharing as Chris-Craft produced a 230 Scorpion as well as the 230 Stinger.

The 385 stands out in the analysis with 3 built – this is because I do not currently have any hull numbers for 385s, so I can only go with how many 385s are documented in the registry. I believe there were more than 3 385s built.

As a double-check of the above analysis, I compared the relative percentages of boats built by model with those documented in the registry and they are reasonably close.

How many Stingers were built in total? Add up the numbers and it comes out to at least 2,292 Stingers built! Seems like a lot, but Chris-Craft was a large company, employing hundreds of people, with multiple production facilities throughout the United States and worldwide.

Lastly, I wondered how many Stingers have survived. While I don't claim to have all surviving Stingers documented in the registry, comparing the number of Stingers from the registry to those built, estimate that at least 30% of the Stingers built have survived – of course, I hope there are more!

All new custom Imron paint, all new upholstery (ready to be installed), the interior needs to be carpeted and the new seats and upholstery installed. The drive trains are ready to go. Other minor things need to be finished before carpet like interior lighting, stereo, and what ever else you would want to install down below. Comes with new trailer. This boat has been in my garage for the last 10 yrs. I have started the engines 3 times a year and let them run for a little while and fogged them. All the hard work is done!-(the exterior and drivetrain). And I have been picking at the interior little by little but my life has changed. Now I have 2 kids and a wife that take up all my time. We have a Formula 272SR1 that we use regularly. I hate to sell this boat but I just can't see my self finishing it. Everything is there to finish it, just needs a couple of months invested which I don't have, it is 90% done. It would make somebody a very nice boat and a nice winter project.
